This Week-

By M. I. N. I.

With the House subcommittee on War Department appropriations beginning its hearings this week, the service is hopeful it will take action establishing an auto-mobile allowance to compensate service personnel who use their privately owned cars on government business. Such use is now widespread on posts and stations and represents a distinct loss to officers and enlisted men.

The President's designation of Rear Adm. Emory S. Land as a member of the Maritime Commission for a term of six years gives to that commission the talents years gives to that commission the themsels of an officer thoroughly aware and intimately familiar with the need for an American merchant marine. As a constructor his record of 102 vessels while chief of the bureau of construction and repair is one likely seldom to be equalled.

The return of Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum to the United States after an outstanding tour of duty as commanding general of the Hawaiian Department will be welcomed by his many friends. When he takes over the Sixth Corps Area he will find it in excellent shape after the administration of Brig. Gen. Charles D.

Capt. William G. Du Bose's elevation from assistant to chief of the bureau of construction and repair of the Navy comes as recognition of his long service and experience as a naval constructor.

Considerable study and thought is being given to the selection of a new commandant of cadets for West Point. Watch for an announcement within a few days.

The 25th Infantry at Fort Huachuca, Ariz., is getting a new officer: Maj. Ralph C. Smith has been ordered to proceed there upon completion of his course of in-struction at the Ecole de Guerre, Paris.

The eligible list from which future warrant officers of the Army will be appointed was completed some weeks ago but is being carefully checked and rechecked by the Adjutant General's office. It is expected to be ready for publication next week. We're all looking forward to next week. We're all looking forv learn who the fortunate ones are.

A difficult task faces the junior line selection board which met this week under the presidency of Rear Adm. Harry E. Lackey, USN. Though their report will helps, 31. bring relief to the 185 lieutenants and 270 lieutenants (junior grade) who will be selected for promotion, it will also conselected for promotion, it will also con-tribute to the forced retirement of 191 leutenants and 22 junior lieutenants in the next four years unless something is done to relieve the situation.

Navy Retirements May Spur Promotion Action

Considerable concern has been evi-Considerable concern has been evidenced in Service circles this week over the figures presented to the House Appropriations Committee by Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, Chief of Bureau of Navigation, as to the ultimate size and cost of the Navy retired list.

The purpose of officers to be forced on the Navy retired list.

The number of officers to be forced on the retired list of the Navy during the next seven years as the result of failure of selection was estimated to be 1,480 by Admiral Andrews—more than half as many officers as are now on the retired list for all causes. Testimony also was given to the committee by Capt. Theodore S. Wilkinson, USN, Chief of the Planning Division of the Bureau of Navigation. Division of the Bureau of Navigation, that the cost of the retired list is expected to increase from $8,297,701 for the current year to about $14,100,000 by 1943, and the number of retired officers, Line, Staff and warrant, is expected to reach about 4,182 officers when the authorized active Line strength of 6,531 is reached in that year.

Officers of the other services under the Joint Pay Act, as well as officers of the Navy, see grave danger to the retired list by this loading up of officers separated from the active list by reason of non-selection. They fear that Congress evenselection. They fear that Congress even-tually will strike at the retired list if the Navy continues to place on it com-paratively young, efficient officers, and that when restrictive legislation comes, it will apply to all of the Services and probably to all classes of retired person-

House and Senate Bills On Service Pay Planned

Increase of the pay of enlisted men and possibly that of Junior commissioned offi-cers of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard, would be provided under legislation to be sponsored in the Senate and House by Senator David I. Walsh, D. of Mass. and Representative Byron N. Scott, D. of Calif.

Representative Scott, who has been at Representative Scott, who has been at work on a pay bill for some time, has arrived back in Washington after a fly-ing trip to the West Coast. His bill was introduced March 11. In the other House, Senator Walsh declared yesterday that he believed a study of the Service pay question is in order.

"I shall introduce Representative Scott's bill in the Senate in order that the scott's bill in the Senate in order that the whole subject of the pay of enlisted men's pay can be studied and thoroughly reviewed," the Senator said, "possibly, also the question of the pay of the junior commissioned officers should be considered. This matter has not been before the Conservation 1999, and the time has comgress since 1922 and the time has come for a reconsideration of this important subject. The enlisted men are not organized and have not one to speak for them except the members of Congress who have the time and the opportunity to interest themselves in their welfare. I propose that their problem shall have sympathetic consideration."

The pay question was actively before the House Naval Committee this week. The committee held hearings on Repre-sentative Boland's bill to increase the pay of chief warrant and warrant officers of (Please turn to Page 567)

House Group May Seek Army Officer Increase

Representative Lister Hill, of Alabama, chairman of the House Military Committee, outlining his committee's program this week, stated that they are planning to consider a sizeable increase in the commissioned officer strength of the Army on the basis of a measure which they expect the administration to send to Congress shortly.

Discussing plans for the military committee during the remainder of the session, Chairman Hill said that the committee "may consider legislation increasing the officer strength before long." Questioned, Mr. Hill stated that he meant that such a proposal may be submitted by the Administration, and that the plan under consideration involves a general in-crease for the entire Army and not for one or two of the arms and services.

The understanding among members of the committee is that the increase to be sought will be about 2,300 officers. It is said that an officer strength of approxi-mately 14,600 is considered the necessary minimum, and that legislation is contemplated to authorize this number to be accomplished in four of five yearly incre-

Under the plan, according to the word received on Capitol Hill, the Medical Corps will receive 150 additional officers, the Dental Corps, 75 additional, the Air Corps a considerable increase, and a proportionate enlargement for other arms and services. To accomplish the increase in the promotion list branches, there is a possibility that a larger number of the Reserve officers serving one year tours of duty under the Thomason Act may be duty under the Thomason Act may be taken into the regular service. That act provides for 1,000 Reserve second lieutenants to be given a year's active duty and that 50 of these may be appointed in the Regular Army at the conclusion of the year's duty. Should the increase be granted and more than 50 be taken during the four year period, it is not intended to abandon the ten year Thomason program after this 14,600 strength is reached. The additional officers for the Air

The additional officers for the Air Corps, will come from the graduates of the Air Corps Training Center. Some ad-ditional officers will be provided from the larger West Point classes which will graduate beginning in 1939. The increase in the number of appointments from two to three was authorized in 1935. The class entering that year, however, was class entering that year, however, was not able to take full advantage of the new law, the bill being passed so late in the session, and the full benefit will be realized with the graduation of the Class of '40. ## Pittman Bill to Strengthen Neutrality of the United States Discussed

Neutrality measures are piling into Congress so fast that it is difficult to keep rack of them. Probably the most important measure is that the sum of the probably the most important measure is that sponsored by Senator Pittman, and said to have the support of the President. The present neutrality legislation expires April 30. In the following editorials editors discuss the various phases of the Pittman Bill. Virtually every Senator and Congressman have their own ideas about neutrality and the final decision undoubtedly will be a compromise between the conflicting factions.

The Arizona Daily Star in discussing neutrality legislation says that "at this time as never before it is necessary for America to formulate and proclaim a policy of strength—something that Mussolini, Hitler, the Japanese war lords, and even John Bull will respect. At all times America should be willing to exhaust all means of peaceful settlement of dispute before drawing the sword. A nation that goes to war without strenuously seeking peaceful settlement is a bully and will eventually suffer the fate that always comes to bullies. Likewise a nation that refuses to fight, that submits to any demands, is a cowardly nation, and suffers the fate that always comes to ecowards. comes to cowards.

"Instead of placing our faith in mere legal instruments that may be incorrectly understood, let us place our faith in ourselves by being firm, but not arrogant, peaceful but not submissive, generous but not foolish, just but not excessively sentimental, courageous but not belligerent. Then with these precepts before us let us face the future unafraid and uncompromised by any kind of international political commitments, dare to do our duty wherever these precepts may take us. By such means rather than through mere words which might be misunderstood will America stand the best chance to keep out of war in Europe, Africa and Asia. It will take strength in arms and determination to remain neutral in the future,"

Further strengthening of the position of the United States as a neutral in the event of foreign war is sought in the bill that the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate has had under consideration for some time," states the Dallas, Tex., News. "This bill tends to modify the traditional American doctrine of freedom of the seas

"Sharp debate is expected on the provision that would authorize the President in time of war, to forbid shipment of raw materials and foods to belligrents in American ships. There is little objection to a cash-and-carry plan for armaments, but opinion is divided on other commodities. Yet a shortage of food might halt a foreign war more quickly than anything else.

foreign war more quickly than anything else.

"The bill makes an exception of Latin American Republics that might be fighting to preserve their independence against agressors from outside the Western Hemisphere. This exception was made as a concession to pleas made at the recent conference at Buenos Aires. It is not intended to apply, however, to a war between two Latin American countries Several Senators, including Borah and Johnson, are expected to argue for main tenance of American freedom of the seas at any cost in war time. Public opinion over the country appears to have concluded that it is not worth while to sacrifice thousands of American lives to avenge the destruction of goods exported to warring countries. What will happen when the economic pinch of neutral embargoes affects agriculture, business and industry as it did in Jefferson's time remains to be seen."

'Senator Borah's attitude toward the neutrality bills represents a little of each "Senator Borah's attitude toward the neutrality bills represents a little of each of the choices which confront a man who has consistently advocated isolation for America since he helped veto membership in the League of Nations seventeen years ago," thinks the Baltimore Sun. "The natural consequence of refusing to bear any part of the collective responsibility for peace is isolation, and the consequences of isolation is either the necessity of defending the right of nationals to carry on trade over seas infested with ships of war; or, through the surrender of these rights, the decision to accept complete economic isolation from the outside world, whatever the

"From long practice Senator Borah chooses isolation, but when he comes to the consequences of isolation he appears to split his principles. He accepts the theory of the neutrality advocates that shipments of munitions, foreign loans and travel in the war zone of foreign ships must be prohibited, but he is not ready to accept restrictions on trade in materials other than war supplies under the 'cash-and-carry' plan. At that point, the Senator believes, America should defend the freedom of the seas.' In other words, Senator Borah recognizes that, as a practical matter, great numbers of Americans will not favor the complete suspension of their foreign trade and the curtailment of their domestic industries, once the pressure of these hardships is felt. The naval appropriations and preparations strongly suggest that this idea is not ethereal.

The Oklahoma City Oklahoman thinks that "unquestionably there is a lot of merit In the proposal to ban the shipment of all essential war commodities to any country engaged in war. At least there is sufficient promise of good in the program to warrant a fair trial of it.

"Are not the proponents of this drastic action exaggerating its influence upon the future destiny of our country? Are they not taking entirely too much for granted when they say that a comprehensive embargo will either prevent war or bring it to

"Even if the refusal to sell war supplies to belligerent nations will not prevent war abroad, it might keep our country from becoming involved in a war abroad. Thus there are two reasons why the program of the embargo promoters is at least worth considering. It might make war less probable and it might render our entanglement in a ferritory way less likely? a foreign war less likely."

In discussing the Pittman Bill the Kalamazoo, Mich., Gazette, declares that "probably no one will regard even this thoroughgoing neutrality program as an absolute guaranty of peace for the United States. Most of us know well enough that the problem of keeping our country out of a major foreign war cannot be as easy and simple as all that. But we know, too, that the old traditional policy didn't keep us out of the last war, and we may have a feeling that the newer conception of neutrality certainly cannot be any less successful. Whether the present proposal will be satisfactory to the administration, which is believed to favor broad discretionary powers, is a question yet to be answered."

April, 1917

As Army Day, April 6, the anniversary of the United States' entry into the world war, approaches General John J. Persh-ing, General of the Armies of the United States, recalled in an interview this week the conditions prevailing 20 years ago and pointed to the lessons it holds for today.

The following Associated Press dis-patch from Tucson, Ariz., carried the General's views:

Birth of the American Expeditionary Forces in the office of Secretary Baker in the middle of May, 1917, was recalled today by General John J. Pershing as the twentieth anniver-sary of the declaration of war against Ger-many approached.

many approached.

General Pershing, in an interview—released by letter after he left his hotel cottage in the Southern Arizona desert for a trip east—told of the budding of the A. E. F. from the original idea that "moral support" was all the United States need give the allies, to the later decision that one division of troops should be sent to France as "a show of our intentions," and later that an army should be sent.

In spite of the months of warning that the European conflict would very likely involve this nation, when war actually came, there was, he said, a "sudden shock in the realization that the United States was actually a part of the greatest military contest of all time." The general recalled that few at the time of declaration of war envisioned how "great would America's participation finally be."

Until summoned to Secretary Baker's office, General Pershing was unaware that he was to command a full-sized army in France. It was President Wilson's decision, Secretary Baker told the general, that American partici-pation in the war should be extended from the dispatch of one division to the sending of an army.

Deploring the "total lack of preparation" which embarrassed the United States in 1917, General Pershing proposed today a definite plan that would transform a peace-time nation into a war-time nation without costly delay and confusion, and at the same time save thousands of casualties due to failure to prepare beforehand.

"In view of world conditions today," the general said, "the United States should be prepared to mobilize half a million men at once, completely equipped with the most modern arms, and fully supplied in every particular. With this army of a half million men this nation could deal with its enemy while the great civilian army was being raised and trained."

The veteran commander, who had seen service in Indian wars and in the Philippines, and as commander of the punitive expedition into Mexico after Villa's raid on a border town in New Mexico, recalled that for some time prior to the declaration of war in April, 1017, be declared of the complex that fiver he had been of the opinion that was pretty certain to come

"Even before leaving Mexico, he said, "the troops in my command, numbering some 15,000 to 16,000 men, had been trained in accordance with the most recent information we could obtain as to the character of warfare necessary should we become involved in the European conflict."

When war was declared, General Pershing was in San Antonio in command of the Eighth Corps Area, having succeeded to that com-mand upon the death of Gen. Frederick Fun-ston a short time before.

He went on:

"Early in May I was ordered to Washington to take command of a division, since it had been decided that America should send a division to France as concrete evidence of our participation in the allied cause. I arrived in Washington May 10, 1917, and proceeded to organize the division.

"A few days later Secretary Baker advised me I had been selected to be commander-inchief of the American Expeditionary Forces. I was informed the United States had determined to send an army to France. I was ordered to choose the members of my staff and to sail as soon as possible."

to sail as soon as possible."

In spite of the long period of warning, General Pershing said, the United States was "totally unprepared when war came." In 1916 Congress had authorized an increase in the strength of the navy, but had done "little or nothing for the army." The pressing problems of organizing and training, of equipping and transporting troops to comprise the A. E. F. confronted the War Department almost without warning, and "considering the circumstances and the unforeseen delays the work was remarkably well done."

Deplaying the tremendous losses of life and Deploring the tremendous losses of life and limb the war brought, General Pershing ex-pressed solicitude for those widowed and or-phaned by the conflict. He hopes to be pres-ent in France this year at the dedications of United States war memorials to the American deed. dead.

General Pershing summed up, with charac-eristic modesty, the victorious struggle to out the American Army into the field, in the following words:

The world knows the story of our efforts and what we finally accomplished.

"As we think back upon it, we are amazed at the magnitude of the effort and at its sig-nal success. Without American support there is no doubt the war would have been lost to

"I would like to make it clear, however," Colonel Arthur said, speaking for the Major General Commandant, "that the Marine Corps realizes fully the value of the services of its warrant and chief warrant officers, and would be glad to see them given increased pay if at the same time corresponding increases were provided for other classes of officers commen te with their rank and responsibili-It is believed that, if practicable, the question of pay should be made the sub-ject of study for the whole service, to the end that a bill may be arrived at that will be equitable to all concerned and will re more present inequalities under which officers of junior rank with lighter re-sponsibilities can receive more pay than their senior with far greater responsibili-

Representative Melvin J. Maas, R. of linn,, expressed the views of several lembers of the committee, in urging that instead of an increase for the warrant officers alone that a pay bill for the en-tire service should be presented to the committee.

A bill was introduced in the House this week during Mr. Scott's absence bearing his name, HR 5557, to increase the pay of enlisted men of the Navy only. It would provide a monthly base pay of men in the regular navy as follows: Chief petty officers, acting and permanent appointments, $150; petty officer, 1st class, $126; petty officer, 2nd class, $105; petty officer, 3rd class, $85; non-rated men, 1st class, $63; non-rated men, 2nd class, $42; apprentice eamen, $21. The Secretary of the Navy would be authorized to fix the pay grades for the various ratings and it is further provided that longevity increase of ten per cent of the base pay for each four years service up to a maximum of fifty per cent would be allowed. A reenlist-ment allowance of $100 for each year's service up to four for men of the first three pay grades, and $50 for each year service up to four would be allowed the remainder of men. Retired enlisted men and transferred reservists would benefit by the proposed increases. The bill con-tains a provision that the "rates of pay for the insular force of the Navy shall be one-half the rates of pay prescribed for enlisted men of the Regular Navy in cor-responding ratings." The bill was re-ferred to the House Naval Affairs Com-mittee

Would Increase Warrant Pay

Adoption of a new pay scale for chief warrant and warrant officers of the Navy was considered before the House Naval Affairs Committee this week with representatives of the Navy Department and of the warrant corps opposing and supporting the measure.

The hearings were held on a bill introduced by Representative Patrick J. Boland, D. of Pa., a member of the naval committee and majority whip of the House. It would substitute the commissioned pay period scale for the present warrant rate of pay, with the pay of the fourth pay period set as the maximum. Warrant officers under the bill would re-ceive less pay on first appointment but would receive more frequent increases and more pay over their careers than at present.

Reception of the measure by members of the committee was not too favorable. Several expressed opposition to an in-crease contending that men in similar crease contending that men in similar occupations in civil life receive less compensation, while others opposed an increase unless authorized for all officers and enlisted men of the Service.

"I favor an increase in pay for the warrant officers," declared Representative Melvin J. Maas, R. of Minn., "But not for them alone. There is no disparity between the pay of commissioned officers and warrant officers. They should have an increase, but it should be in a general pay bill for all groups in the Service."

Rear Adm. Adolphus Andrews, USN,
Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, was the principal witness for the Navy Department in opposition to the bill. Lt. Col. John M. Arthur, USMC, also appeared to give the Marine Corps' views. Chief Machinist Frank M. Hendricks, USN, and Chief Pay Clerk A. L. Frellway. USN testified in the graphyst.

Inger, USN, testified in its support.
Admiral Andrews told the committee that the Department estimated that enactment of the measure would cost nearly $1,500,000 and that it was not in accordance with the financial program of the President. He also testified that the De-partment was opposed to increasing the pay of one group of naval personnel with-out aiding the rest of the service.

out aiding the rest of the service.

His figures as to the estimated cost of the measure were disputed by Chief Pay Clerk Frelinger, who declared that studies he had made indicated that the bill would save the Government money. By placing warrant and chief warrant officers on the same basis as to pay as commissioned officers, he argued that the pay received by a warrant officer would simply be differently distributed throughout his career. Under the bill, he said, a warrant officer upon original appointment would receive the pay of an ensign and could not count his enlisted service. This would mean that warrant officers during the first few years of service would rethe first few years of service would re-ceive less money than they do now, but would reach the higher brackets sooner than at present, giving them more money during the time that they are rearing their children and therefore need the

The committee attempted by questioning to bring out the reasons for the differ-ence in the two estimates and Admiral Andrews, after the warrant officer case had been presented, said that the Department had not considered that the bill ex-cluded enlisted service from being com-nuted, and if this was intended a clarifying amendment should be added. Excluding such service, however, he testified, only reduced the cost of the bill to about $1,100,000. Asked to prepare a breakdown of the cost of the bill, Admiral Andrews invited Mr. Frelinger to consult with his aides so that an agreement could be reached as to the cost and that it could be furnished the committee.

Both Mr. Hendricks and Mr. Frelinger estified that while they felt enactment of the present bill was necessary, and would be of great benefit to the warrant corps, some outlet for promotion for chief war-rant officers would ultimately be required. They both agreed that this promotion by giving advancement in rank comparable to that of commissioned officers lieutenant commander, but that it should be within their own corps. The warrant grade should be maintained, they contended, as a separate group between the commissioned officers and enlisted men.

Transatlantic Air Route

Of interest to the Services are negotia-tions in progress between the United States and Great Britain with regard to proposed transatlantic operations of P American Airways and Great Britain.

The British Government through the urging of Canadian authorities is insisting that the North American terminal shall be located at Montreal, with a branch line running into New York. Looking further, the British are visualizing an all British route across Canada and the Pacific to Japan and Russia. In be-half of the London-Montreal route it is half of the London-Montreal route it is claimed that the route will be much shorter than the proposed American Air-way route as the planes will follow the Great Circle. Planes would hit Bermuda, New York, Newfoundland and London, under the route proposed by American Airways. Canadians contend that the distance between Bermuda and Halifax is almost as short as between Bermuda is almost as short as between Bermuda

The Oberlin Carter Case

A review of the case of former Capt. Oberlin M. Carter, dismissed from the Army nearly 40 years on conviction of conspiracy to defraud the government, was undertaken by a subcommittee of the House military committee March 11.

The hearing granted to the 81 year old former engineer officer is the latest of many efforts to prove his contention that members of the court martial were prejudiced and that the whole case was a frame-up. Witnesses from the War De-partment at Thursday's hearing testified that of the many persons involved in the celebrated case as members of the court martial, witnesses, attorneys, but four or five are still alive. These include former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, a retired Army officer, and two Federal Judges, one still on the bench.

Aeronautical Engineering Duty

The following Circular Letter No. 7-37 has been issued by the Bureau of Navigation :

gation:

1. In order that the naval service may gain the greatest benefits from the specialized knowledge and talents of the officers designated for performance of aeronautical engineering duties only, it is the desire of the Bureau of Navigation that such officers be employed, to the fullest extent practicable, in the work of their specialty; and that only in unusual circumstances shall they be diverted to extraneous administrative and military duties.

3. Administrative authorities concerned are accordingly enjoined to insure that the employment of officers in the Aeronautical Engineering Duty Only group is in accordance with the policy outlined in this letter.

Water for Engine Fuel

The secret of running a gasoline engine on water, plus a few drops of a mysterious bin water, plus a few drops of a mysterious fluid, offered to the Navy 20 years ago by an inventor, who apparently accom-plished successfully this seemingly im-possible feat, has again been offered to the Navy this time by a man who claims to be the son of the inventor and inherited the secret from him.

Because the Navy would not pay him two million dollars cash in advance for his secret, a Portuguese who called him-self John Andrews refused to reveal any thing as to his secret. The Navy offered thing as to his secret. The Navy offered to put the sum asked in escrow to be delivered to him when he had delivered his formula to Navy officers. Andrews, however, refused the offer and disappeared. Unbelievable as the story sounds there is evidence that he ran a navy engine several times under the eyes of payed officers at a payed station who of naval officers at a naval station who used every possible check to prevent

The committee called upon the House Naval Affairs Committee to in-House Naval Affairs Committee to investigate the personnel question to see if some changes cannot be made to curtail the number of midshipmen being appointed to the Naval Academy, while the chairman of the subcommittee which handled the naval appropriation bill, personally warned the Naval Affairs Committee that if no action is taken on their recommendation by next year that his commitmendation by next year that his commit-tee will act in the matter. Representa-tive J. William Ditter, ranking minority member of the subcommittee, who was responsible for the investigation of the selection problem conducted by the group during its hearings, also urged that the

tion of the present selection troubles.

Representative Carl Vinson, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, however, will not yield in his determination not to take up the personnel question unless the Navy Department recommends some change. The Department, Rear Admiral Andrews said last week, has no plans for recommending any legislation on the subject. While the Department has taken no steps along this line, naval officials are quite concerned over the agitation that the question has had recently in Congress, and may be forced to take action if enough interest is aroused on Capitol Hill. Representative Ditter, in a speech on the floor of the House last Friday, revealed that he has received many letters urging personnel reforms and said that other members have told him that they have had similar letters. him that they have had similar letters. If enough members are thus interested, it is predicted that it is only a question of time before the General Board report is forced into the open and the problem is given a comprehensive study by Congress

That Chairman Vinson will not permit the selection question to be discussed be-fore the Naval Committee was illustrated this week. During hearings on legislation to increase the pay of Navy warrant offi-cers, Rear Admiral Andrews was testifying in opposition to the measure and in the course of his remarks made the statement that the pay of a chief warrant officer was comparable to that of a captain when it was considered that the latter had a position and social obligation Members of the committee then wanted to know if it was necessary for officers to give "teas and bridge parties" which caused this extra expense, and Rear Ad-miral Andrews answered that particolarly on foreign stations, it was necessary for officers, as representatives of the United States to do some entertaining Representative Melvin J. Maas, then broke in.

"As a matter of fact, Admiral," he said. "officers must keep up their social obliga-tions if they want to be selected, do they

Rear Admiral Andrews, however, did not have to answer the question, as Chairman Vinson quickly ruled the question out of order.

THE U. S. COAST GUARD

The Coast Guard Air Station to be built at Floyd Bennett Airport, New built at Floyd Bennett Airport, New York, and scheduled to be finished by Feb. 18, 1938, is expected to be the most complete Air Station that the Coast Guard has, and it will, through its strategic location, be the most active Aviation unit. When this Air Station is placed in commission, it is expected that the Air Station at Cape May, N. J., will be placed out of commission as an air station and if used at all, it will be used only as a place for storage of aviation property. tion property.

The Air Station is being constructed on a plot of ground 650 by 650 feet square, located on the east side of Floyd Bennett Airport, which borders on Island Channel, Jamaica Bay, New York. The property was deeded to the Coast Guard by the City of New York on July 1936, for this purpose.

When completed the Air Station will ontain following facilities:

(a) Hangar and barracks building for sulisted personnel in one unit 162'x182'. (b) Seaplane ramp, 50' wide by 300' long, load limit 25,000 pounds.

(c) Garage with 4 stalls for automobiles, one stall for erash boat, and one section for paint and dope shop.

(b) Aqua hydraulic flotation gasoline

(b) Aqua hydraulic notation gasonine fueling system for 8,000 gallons.

(e) Necessary aprons, taxiway, bulkhead, roads, walks, etc. One road will connect the Station with the landing connect the Station with the landing field at Floyd Bennett Airport. (f) Communications will consist of radio, two telephone trunk line tele-phones, loud speaker system and inter-communications system, and a radio direction finder.

Reorganize Districts
Orders have been issued by Headquarters for the reorganization of stations in the Fourth and Seventh Coast Guard Districts to be completed by Sept. 1,

The following Coast Guard Stations in the Fourth District will be placed in an inactive status: Amagansett, Southampton, Tiana, Quague and Potunk. In the Seventh District these stations will be made inactive: False Cape, Currituck Beach, Paul Gamiels Hill, Bodie Island, Big Kinakeet, Creeds Hill, Portsmouth, and Cape Fear.

The following stations from Moriches to Montauk Point on Long Island will remain active in the Fourth District Ditch Plain, Napeague, Georgica, Shinnecock and Moriches.

The following stations in the Seventh District will represent the seventh of the Seventh Cape Henry Cape Henry

The following stations in the Seventh District will remain active: Cape Henry, Virginia Beach, Little Island, Wash Woods, Caffeys Inlet, Kill Devil Hills, Nags Head, Oregon Inlet, Pea Island, Chicamacomico, Little Kinnakeet, Cape Hatteras, Hatteras Inlet, Ocracoke, Core Rank, Care Leckent East, Masser Beach Bank, Cape Lookout, Fort Macon, Bogue Inlet and Oak Island.

Changes will be made gradually and will not result in anyone being dis-charged, reduced in rating or trans-ferred out of the district, it is said. A New permanent complement for the dis-trict will be determined later. The change in setup of the districts is the result of a study which has been made of Coast Guard Stations in all districts, with a view to improving the efficiency through modernization and consolida-

The promotion of Lt. Comdr. John Trebes, Jr., and Lt. Comdr. Lyndon Spencer, USCG, has been confirmed by the Senate effective June 14, 1936, and Dec. 1, 1936, respectively.

A Joint Resolution has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Sheppard pro-viding for the payment of $10,000 to Mrs. Luke T. Christopher, widow of the late Lt. Christopher, USCA. The latter had applied for $10,000 worth of insurance Dec. 1, 1936 and regular allotment was to be made Jan. 1, 1937. He was killed in an airplane crash Dec. 5, and the first allotment therefore, not paid.

WHAT A DIFFERENCE CRISPNESS MAKES

THERE'S a whale of a difference in wheat cereals! And you'll have to try Kellogg's Wheat Krispies to find out how delicious and crisp every bowlful is. You get the nourishment of whole wheat in delicious toasted flakes. Ready to eat.

But that's not all. You get a crunchy goodness that no other wheat flake ever offered. Kellogg's Wheat Krispies actually stay crisp in the bowl. Add milk or cream and the last spoonful is just as crunchy as the first. Try Wheat Krispies. Sold at your Commissary Store or Post Exchange. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HERE ARE SOME FACTS FOR the country and Congress to chew on in connection with the naval promotion system:

The House Appropriations Committee, the most powerful body in the lower chamber, after a careful study of the operations of the system, declares there is "urgent need" for further legislative consideration of the Navy's line officers situation.

Rarely does the Appropriations Committee tell a legislative committee, in this case the Naval Committee, what it ought to do. Such advice constitutes a reflection upon the criticized committee since it indicates failure to do its job.

Representative Vinson of Georgia, Chairman of the Naval Committee, replied to the Appropriations Committee by asserting his committee would "do nothing" until the Navy Department submits some proposed legislation.

This is a surrender of the responsibility of the Naval Committee to the Navy Department. The Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, indicated his accord with Mr. Vinson by stating he has no plans for congressional consideration.

Upon pressure by Representative Ditter, of Pennsylvania, who has made a very thorough and able study of the Navy, the Navy Department sent to the Appropriations

Surely the country, including the Service affected, have as much right to know the contents of that report as have some members of Congress.

Rear Admiral Andrews told the Appropriations Committee that his endorsement upon the report of the General Board has been approved by the Secretary of the Navy. What administrative changes have thus become the effect of law insofar as future promotions are concerned? Why are they kept secret?

What is back of all this secrecy, this refusal to acknowledge conditions which the action of the Navy Department itself shows to be in need of correction? Why does the Navy Department and the House Naval Committee disregard the deliberate conclusions of the Appropriations Committee that there is "urgent need" for legislative consideration of this matter of promotion, a matter vital to naval morale?

conclusions of the Appropriations Committee that there is "argent need" for legislative consideration of this matter of promotion, a matter vital to naval morale?

The Department should come out into the open and let the country know the facts. And the Naval Committee, and particularly Representative Vinson, should lose no time in performing the duty placed upon them and which some of the members of the committee are anxious to discharge. In the words of the President, in connection with another branch of the government that action should be taken NOW!

FEW ARE AWARE OF THE tremendous amount of highly specialized duty performed year in and year out by the officers of the Judge Advocate General's Department of the Army. As the official legal adviser of the Secretary of War, the Chief of Staff, the War Department and its bureaus, and in fact to the entire military establishment, the Judge Advocate General, assisted by the 102 officers commissioned in and detailed to his department, advises concerning the legal correctness of military administration, including dissiplinary exting, matters officing the rights and mutual lishment, the Judge Advocate General, assisted by the 102 officers commissioned in and detailed to his department, advises concerning the legal correctness of military administration, including disciplinary action, matters affecting the rights and mutual relationship of the personnel of the Army, and financial contractual and other affairs. In his office in Washington alone—where there are now 35 officers as compared with 43 a few years ago—the work (other than court martial cases) has increased about 48 per cent over the same period. In the field of General Courts Martial, the officers of the Department handled during the past fiscal year a total of 1,742, of which 1,645 resulted in convictions. It is this Department which gives the Army a record in judicial procedure of which the entire service is proud. Military justice is not amenable to the technical obstructions and long delays characterizing the civil courts. As a matter of fact during the last year the average period elapsing between the arrest of military personnel and their sentence or dismissal of charges was exactly 36 days. As a deterrent to misdeeds, this speedy justice is a powerful factor. In Washington the Department maintains a board of review to act on courts martial, courts of inquiry, and "B" board cases; a section for military justice; a section for military affairs; a claims and bonds section; a patent section, and a contracts and reservations sections. The latter section, alone, rendered 1,116 opinions during the past fiscal year. The patents section also prepared and with the cooperation of the Department of Justice defended 48 cases in which $295,000,000 were involved. In addition 985 patent cases were handled in the office. The Department has a total of 657 Reserve officers, but unfortunately funds for their training have been so restricted that during the last year 14-day active duty training was permitted for only one lieutenant colonel, two majors, and six captains. The work of this Department will increase so enormously in an emer

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Blue Uniforms for General Officers—The new blue dress uniforms for general officers of the line and of the GHQ Air Force was approved this week and amendments to Section I, Circular No. 7, 1937, issued accordingly. The new uniform for the Generals is on the same cut as those for other officers. The trousers for generals of the erais is on the same cut as those for other officers. The trousers for generals of the line and of the GHQ Air Force, however, will be of dark blue like the coat, instead of sky blue as for other officers and general officers who are chiefs and assistant chiefs of branches. General officers of the line and of the GHQ Air Force who have purchased sky blue trousers may wear them until they are no longer serviceable, it was

The trousers, belt, cap and coat sleeve will be adorned with gold lace. For the belt the generals have three strips of gold bullion, ¼ inch in width, ¼ inch from each edge equally spaced. On each coat sleeve they will wear one 1½ inch gold lace stripe, the bottom of the stripe to be 3 inches above the bottom of the sleeve. Ornamentation on their caps will comprise a blue black velvet band around it with oak leaves in groups of two, about one inch in length and ¾ inch in width, embroidered in gold, with the visor ornamented as already prescribed for general officers who are chiefs and assistant chiefs of arms and services (two sout-inches of each leaves in groups and assistant chiefs of arms and services (two semi-circles of oak leaves in groups of two about one inch in length and % inch in width, embroidered in gold). The insignia on their shoulder straps will be: "lieutenant general, three stars; major general, two stars; brigadler general, 1 star; stars to be % inch in diameter and embroidered on a blue black velvet background." On the trousers they will have two ½ inch stripes of gold lace spaced ½ inch apart."

Except for the ornamentation on the visor of the cap and the insignia of their rank, general officers who are chiefs or assistant chiefs of arms and services will wear the same uniform as other officers of their branch.

Naval Forces in Europe—Rear Adm. Arthur P. Fairfield, commanding the American naval forces in European waters, organized as Squadron 20 Tare, has returned in his squadron flagship, the Raleigh, to his base at Villefranche from a ten day visit to Naples. This temporary shift of base was made desirable on account of the previously planned visit of the French fleet to the port of Villefranche. While the Raleigh was enroute to Naples via Marseilles, advantage was taken of the period underway to conduct annual full power machinery trials. The absence of the Raleigh happened at an opportune time, in that naval operations by the nationalist forces in the vicinity of Valencia and Barcelona have quieted down in the past month, thus making it needless to evacuate any American nationals from the seaports of Malaga, Valencia, and Barcelona. While the Raleigh was anchored at the port of Naples, Admiral Fairneedless to evacuate any American nationals from the seaports of Malaga, Valencia, and Barcelona. While the Raleigh was anchored at the port of Naples, Admiral Fairfield, together with a number of the officers and enlisted men attached to his flagship, proceeded to Rome where the Admiral was the guest of honor at a tea, given by Capt. Thaddeus A. Thompson, American naval attache at Rome, attended by most of the diplomatic and military and naval officers resident in the city. In view of the likelihood that naval and air operations will be resumed by the nationalist forces in the vicinity of Valencia and Barcelona in the near future, it is not expected that the Raleigh can be spared from her present station for participation in the naval review of the British fleet incident to the coronation in May.

of the British fleet incident to the coronation in May.

In view of the improbability that the Raleigh can be withdrawn from duty in the Meditteranean for many months to come, plans have been made by the Bureau of Navigation for the reliefs of officers and enlisted men whose cruises will expire by midsummer. Capt. Charles H. Maddux is due to arrive at Villefranche some time this month as the relief of Capt. Edward J. Foy who is under orders to return to the United States for duty at the Army Industrial College.

Wyoming Explosion Inquiry—The naval court of inquiry appointed by Rear Adm. Wilson Brown to inquire into the causes of the explosion of the five-inch shell Feb. 17 on board the Wyoming, resulting in the death of one Marine officer and six enlisted men and the serious injuries to four other enlisted members of the guncrew, has arrived at a finding which exonerates all the personnel of the gun's crew from any blame for the premature exploding of the shell. The court's elimination of a "perblame for the premature exploding of the shell. The court's elimination of a "personnel error" compelled the members to seek the cause by studies into the design of the shell with particular reference to the fuse, which it is believed, became operative improperly after the shell had been placed in the breech of the gun. The court's conclusions in this regard have been forwarded to the Navy Department for further reference to the Bureau of Ordnance. Pending this Bureau's decision which is to be made after a careful study of all available data connected with the accident, no

L. R. Hawkins, Manager action will be taken with respect to the shell of identical design, now unexpended.

Capt. Leo F. Welch, commanding the New York, and president of the court of inquiry, stated, according to unofficial dispatches from Long Beach:

"The court has only praise for the members of the gun's crew for the action of its members both before and after the explosion. The court has made a careful investigation into all the circumstances connected with this matter. Some defect in this particular shell, the exact nature of which is as yet undetermined, caused it to explode prematurely in the breech of No. 13 five-inch gun."

rematurely in the breech of No. 13 five-inch gun."

The evidence before the court is understood to have indicated that the shell exploded just as the rammerman was in the act of ramming it home but before the powderman came up to the breech to insert the powder charge.

The court's exoneration of the members of the gun crew is said to include the court's opinion that all Departmental safety precautions were complied with both in the drills prior to the firing and also while the firing was in progress. The New York is now enroute to the east coast, having sailed from San Diego for Norfolk on March 3 to be made ready for duty with the Training Squadron in connection with the forthermine midshipment's practice cruise. coming midshipmen's practice cruise.

Navy Captains on Last Cruise—When the fleet departs for sea on April 17 for the solution of Fleet Problem XVIII, certain captains of the capital ships will be making their last cruise afloat, except in the cases of those who may be selected for flag rank in the future. Since it is the policy of the Department to accord senior captains their last cruise afloat, except in the cases of those who may be selected for flag rank in the future. Since it is the policy of the Department to accord senior captains only one cruise in command of a battleship or heavy cruiser—the duration of the "cruise" being between 18 months and two years—it has been ascertained that the following named captains will have ended their naval duty at sea on the completion of the fleet problem that is due to end on May 28, except, as stated, in the case of those who may be selected at a later date for advancement to flag rank. The officers named below will come up for selection before the completion of the shore duty which they are to begin in mid-summer: Capt. Roscoe C. McFall, commanding the California; Capt. Wilhelm L. Friedell, commanding the Colorado; Capt. William P. Gaddis, commanding the Mississippi; Capt. William A. Hall, commanding the Oklahoma; Capt. Leo F. Welch, commanding the New York; Capt. Guy E. Baker, commanding the Houston; Capt. William L. Beck, commanding the San Francisco; Capt. Charles M. Austin, commanding the Astoria. Although the following captains may not be ordered ashore until the end of this year, they are to be included in the list of those who are making their last "big maneuver" cruise: Capt. Chester H. J. Keppler, commanding the Minneapolis; Capt. Thomas A. Symington, commanding the Northampton; Capt. William S. Farber, commanding the Louisville; Capt. H. Kent Hewitt, commanding the Indianapolis; and Capt. Willis W. Bradley, commanding the Portland. The following captains who are not due for shore duty until 1938, may get in another fleet maneuver before relinquishing their command: Capt. Louis P. Davis, commanding the Maryland; Capt. Milo F. Draemel, commanding the Pennsylvania; Capt. George A. Alexander, commanding the Arizona; Capt. Harvey Delano, commanding the Idaho; Capt. Laurence N. McNair, commanding the Tennessee; Capt. Claude B. Mayo, commanding the Pensacola; Capt. Herbert B. Riebe, commanding the New Mexico; Capt. William R. Fur Passports in the Orient—Considerable difficulty has arisen in connection with Naval personnel from Guam visiting Japan with Certificates of Identification in lieu of regular passports and, at the request of the Secretary of State, the Secretary of Navy has notified all employees of the Navy Department, and persons in the Naval service who proceed to the Philippine Islands or Guam on assignments, and members of their families, to carry with them documentary evidence, such as birth or baptismal certificates or passports, in order that they may be able to establish their American citizenship if called upon to do so.

The Governor cannot issue regular passports without being furnished with sufficient evidence of citizenship, it is pointed out, and so in the future orders of all personnel assigned to duty in Guam will include a paragraph reading as follows:

"In view of possible trips to Japan and other countries in the Orient, it is recommended that passports for yourself and your dependents accompanying you to Guam be secured prior to leaving the United States. Birth certificates for all persons should be taken with you as they are required as evidence of citizenship in case it becomes necessary for any reason to secure passports in Guam."

Officers and enlisted men attached to cruising vessels are not required to have passports, the Bureau of Navigation states. Commissioned officers in the Navy may establish their American citizenship for passport purposes by merely submitting evidence showing their status as such. However, this privilege does not extend to the wives of such persons unless the marriage occurred prior to Sent 22 1922. Army Field Exercises and CPX's—While arrangements for the forthcoming field exercises in the Fourth Army can not be made final until after the passage of the Army appropriation bill with the necessary funds, it is understood that tentative plans call for four concentrations to be integrated into one problem.

The four concentrations to be integrated into one problem.

The four concentrations, it is said, will be necessary because of the huge expense which would be involved in transporting the Regular and National Guard troops from all over the huge area to one concentration point. The four sites tentatively selected are: one between Monterey and San Luis Obispo, Calif.; one between Ft. Lewis and Camp Murray, Wash.; one at Camp Riley, near Minneapolis, Minn., and one at Ft. Riley, Kans. All will be held at various dates in August.

The Command Post Exercise for this coming year is scheduled to be conducted in the First Army. It probably will be held early in September.

The Dirigible Situation—The future of construction and use of lighter-than-air craft by the United States Navy is dependent upon the action to be taken by Secretary of the Navy Swanson. Following a broad study of the problem the Navy General Board has submitted its findings to the Secretary.

Although details of the findings and recommendations made by the Board are not generally known, it is believed in some circles that they tend to favor further development. Secretary Swanson has gone on record as doubting the usefulness of lighter-than-air craft with the Fleet, but supporters of a continuing airship program feel that they have a friend in Assistant Secretary of the Navy Edison.

There are two lighter-than-air craft bills before Congress at present, one of which the Navy has recommended against and the other which although it did not recommend against did not favor its enactment. The first of these bills HR 2253 provides for a loan of $6,000,000 to an aeronautical engineering company to construct an air-ship and to demonstrate the military value of such and for the Secretary of the Navy ship and to demonstrate the military value of such and for the Secretary of the Navy to inspect and accept or reject the complete airship. It further provides for the use of naval airship facilities. It also provides for the repayment of the loan in 10 years if the airship is not accepted. The Navy Department in a letter to the Naval Affairs Committee stated that the shed at Sunnyvale, Calif., had been turned over to the Army and the one at Lakeburst was in use. The "suspension bridge type" of airship is highly experimental, the Department said, and its size and performance would exceed any ship thus far built. "In the opinion of the Department the stated performance can not be realized in the present state of the art with the type of construction that is indicated," the letter stated. The size of he ship was larger than the Department considers a desirable conservative step, the Department added, and recommended against its enactment.

The second bill HR 2694 authorized the construction of two lighter-than-air ships at a cost not to exceed $5,500,000, one of which is to be constructed at Moffett Field. In commenting on the bill the Department said:

"In view of the fact that the Navy Department's policy on the subject of lighter-than-air craft development is in a suspended status, awaiting the results of studies and investigations by highly competent authority, the Navy Department does not recommend the enactment of the proposed legislation. * * *

"The proposed legislation is not in accordance with the program of the President."

Rear Adm. Arthur B. Cook, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, during

Rear Adm. Arthur B. Cook, USN, Chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, during the hearings on the Naval Appropriation Bill recently said that "in my own personal opinion, there are a number of very useful military purposes to which lighter-than-air craft can be put." This, however, did not reflect the Navy Department's feeling in the matter, he said. Germany has always had the lead with lighter-than-air craft, Admiral Cook said, both commercially and from the standpoint of defense equipment. Discussing nonrigid airships, Rear Admiral Cook said:

"Nonrigids, or blimps, are the small-sized airships that have demonstrated their value in shore patrol, convoy, antisubmarine work, mine detection and, in peace, or miscellaneous utility work. It is essential the Navy train personnel and build and operate enough of this class of airship so that in an emergency we will be prepared to put larger numbers in operation. During the years that naval airship money and effort were concentrated on large rigid airships, the small types were very largely neglected. This was a mistake. The naval attitude or policy with reference to this small class of airship is favorable and is not affected by whatever the future policy may be with reference to large rigid airships.

"Planes and blimps have always been held entirely separate from rigid airships, may be with reference to large rigid airships.

"Planes and blimps have always been held entirely separate from rigid airships, their use being entirely different. The blimps are used for patrolling, as they were during the war, covering coastal lanes for submarines, as well as for convoy escort work with surface ships, just as airplanes are used. There are many other uses to which they can be economically put, such as photographing, map-making, and so forth, for which operations they are particularly fitted.

"In order that the record may be completed. I would like to say that we have on forth, for which operations they are particularly fitted.

"In order that the record may be complete, I would like to say that we have on hand now at Lakehurst a blimp of 200,000 cubic feet, called the J-4, which is an assembly of a 12-year old airship car with a fairly new envelope; one known as the ZMC-2, of 200,000 cubic feet, which is an experimental metal-clad airship built in 1928; the K-1; of 325,000 cubic feet, which is the only naval design of nonrigid airship built since 1921. The car was built at the naval aircraft factory, and was first assembled in 1931. It was recently reassembled with a new envelope. We also have the G-1, of 180,000 cubic feet, which is a Goodyear design acquired in September, 1935, with the $75,000 included in the 1936 appropriation.

"Only three blimps (exclusive of the experimental type metal-clad airship) are now on hand and each of these is approaching its safe age limit. Replacement will be Replacement will be required at an early date, and this item for blimps has already been delayed a year. ould funds for these two airships not be allowed in the fiscal year 1938, it will mean Should funds for these two airships not be allowed in the fiscal year 1938, it will mean that before the end of that year the Navy Department lighter-than-air activities will be reduced to one or two blimps. This situation would practically prohibit any worth-while training of personnel and would probably make it necessary to cease lighter-than-air activities until the essential equipment can be provided."

In addition to the two above mentioned bills Rep. Sutphin and Rep. Harter introduced bills in the House March 10 authorizing the Secretary of the Navy "to proceed immediately with the procurement of a rigid airship, of moderate size to replace the United States airship Los Angeles for use in training personnel and for such other activities as lies within its capabilities.

"The total cost shall not exceed $3,000,000 and there is hereby authorized to be

FORT HOWARD, MD.

March 7, 1937
At a recent meeting, Mrs. F. W. Manley was elected president and Mrs. E. N. Frakes continued as secretary of the Ladies Afternoon Bridge Club which meets on alternate Tuesdays.

A couple of weeks ago, Mrs. D. Bailard was hostess to all the Indies of the post at a bridge luncheon given in honor of Mrs. Kirkendahl, mother of Mrs. Bailard.

On Saturday Feb. 13, Lt. Louis Shepherd and the Reserve Officers were hosts at a dance. For the occasion the club was most artistically decorated in the Valentine motif. During intermission, after a fanfare of trumpets, Maj. M. Clay was presented with a cake decorated with seven candles—in honor of his birthday which obviously was not his seventh.

The once-a-month Sunday evening supper dance was held on Feb. 21. To complete a very enjoyable evening, everyone went to the post movie after the dance to see 'The Great Zieg-feld.' This picture shown three times that day was attended by over four hundred people and the proceeds were donated to the Army Pation Fand. Relief Fund.

Preceding the hop Feb. 21, Capt. and Mrs.

Preceding the hop Feb. 21, Capt. and Mrs. Charles Keerans were hosts at a buffet supper at the club. The guests, numbering about sixty, included all the officers of the post, their wives and guests.

The first Friday evening of each month is devoted to a mixed bridge party. Preceding this affair this month, Capt, and Mrs. John Caldwell entertained at dinner in honor of Col. and Mrs. F. W. Manley. Col. and Mrs. Geo. W. Price, Maj. and Mrs. E. N. Frakes, Maj. and Mrs. John Ferguson and Lt. and Mrs. Leroy Miller.

LONG BEACH, CALIF.

LONG BEACH, CALIF.

Balmy weather contributed to the success of the open house festivities when the Palos Verdes Golf Club entertained officers of the fleet yesterday with a golf tournament beginning early in the morning Luncheon interluded the morning and afternoon rounds and the event was climased by a gay dinner dance in the evening preceded by several cocktail parties. Prior to the dinner Capt. C. B. Mayo, USS Navada, and Mrs. Mayo were hosts to officers of the Navada and their wives at a cocktail party in their home, 2616 Via Camjesian in Palos Verdes Estates and later at the dinner dance.

Capt. and Mrs. R. A. Dawes had as their guests at the dinner Rear Adm. and Mrs. J. K. Taussig, Comdr. and Mrs. J. C. Parham and Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. P. W. Warren.

Hawalian music was played in the garden when Comdr. and Mrs. A. H. Gray, USS Colorado, entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of officers who are leaving this ship in the Spring and their wives. Condrs. and Mmss. W. J. Pennell, J. A. Kelly, and Leon Fiske, Lt. Comdrs. and Mmse, J. K. Davis and J. B. Heffernan, Lt. and Mmes. E. G. (Continued on next Page)

..IT'S TIME YOU TRIED THEM! You've only one throat to last you a lifetime. And there's only one cigarette with a touch of "mild menthol" to keep it cool and easy. You and KOOLS ought to get together. First, because it's a magnificent blend, judged on tobacco quality alone. Second, because without spoiling that fine tobacco flavor, the mild menthol makes each puff as stimulating as a breath of fresh air in a stuffy room. Finally -the coupon on each pack! ### Maritime Commission Named President Roosevelt this week named his Maritime Commission, including Rear Admirals Henry A. Wiley and Emory S. Land as members and Joseph P. Kennedy as Chairman. Appointed to the Commission and their term of office were:

Thomas M. Woodward, former vice president of the United States Shipping Board's Merchant Fleet Corp, three

Rear Adm. Henry A. Wiley, USN-Ret. who has been serving as Chairman of the Commission appointed last September, four years

Edward C. Moran, former Democratic Representative from Maine and active on the House Merchant Marine Committee,

Rear Adm. Emory S. Land (CC), USN, Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair, who retires Monday, six years.

The latter, who received the longest appointment of any of the members, will be a valuable addition to the Commission because of his knowledge of construction and repair work. During his four years as Chief of the Bureau of Construction and Repair he has helped design 108 ships for the Navy and it was under him that the Navy's construction program reached its peak. During the World War, while on duty in the Bureau of Construc tion and Repair, Navy Department, in 1917, and on the Staff of the late Admiral Sims in London in 1918, his ability as a constructor and designer was recognized and as a result he was awarded the Navy Cross with the following citation:

"For distinguished service in the line of his profession in connection with the design and construction of Submarines and for work in the War Zone.

Rear Admiral Land's work has not been confined to construction of floating vessels as he also has been active in avia-tion. He was appointed a member of the Army and Navy Heilum Board in

Financial Digest

During the week ended March 3 member bank reserve balances decreased $45. 000,000. Reductions in member bank re-serves arose from a decrease of $3,000, 000 in Reserve bank credit and increases of $35,000,000 in money in circulation $18,000,000 in Treasury cash and $36,000. 000 in Treasury deposits with Federal Reserve banks, offset in part by increases of $18,000,000 in gold stock and $3,000,000 in Treasury currency and a decrease of $24,000,000 in nonmember deposits and other Federal Reserve accounts. Follow-ing the increase of sixteen and two-thirds per cent in reserve requirements of mem-ber banks which became effective on March 1, aggregate required reserves of member banks increased approximately $750,000,000 during the week ended March 3, and excess reserves declined from approximately $2,100,000,000 on February 24 to $1,310,000,000 on March 3.
Principal changes in holdings of bills and securities were an increase of $9,000. 000 in United States bonds and a decrease of $9,000,000 in United States Treasury

Duty Under Thomason Act

The personnel policies which will gov-The personnel policies which will govern the selection of Reserve Officers for training under the provisions of the Thomason Act have been approved by the Secretary of War and are now being sent to Corps Area Commanders.

The Budget estimates for 1938, now between the Corps area of the Secretary of the Secretary of War and Secretary of the Secretary of the Secretary of the Secretary of the Secretary of Reserve.

The Budget estimates for 1938, now be-fore Congress, provide funds for the training of only 500 such officers next year instead of the 1,000 annual quota specified in the original Act. There is every reason to believe, however, that the House and Senate will approve an in-House and Senate will approve an increase to bring the number of trainees up to the figure originally authorized. As provided in the Act, it is the intention to give these 1.000 officers one year's ac-five duty with units of the Regular Army, at the conclusion of which 50 officers will he selected for permanent commissions in the Regular Army. The complete text of the new policy

The complete text of the new policy follows:

1. In the event sufficient funds are appropriated by the Congress to put into effect the provisions of Public No. 468, 74th Congress—2nd Session (Thomason Act), approved August 30, 1935, the plan given below will be used for the selection of the 1,000 yearly trainers for the fiscal year 1937-38. In case fands for the training of the entire number of 1,000 Reserve officers are not appropriated, then the figures of distribution by sections and by corps areas will be reduced proportionately.

2. The trainees will be allotted among the rms and services as shown in the attached arms and services as shown in the attached Table I.

3. The Professor of Military Science and Tactics of each senior R. O. T. C. unit of institutions offering a college degree will prepare lists showing name, age, and residence of applicants for training who have been commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps from the institution, or who are expected to be so commissioned before July 1, 1937, and who will be less than 28 years of age on July 1, 337, arranged in the order of their military efficiency as follows:

a. Applicants who are expected to graduate from the institution in 1937 and applicants graduated from the institution prior to 1937 who on July 1, 1937, will be in their 22d year. This latter group were not eligible for last graduated from the institution prior to 1932 who on July 1, 1937, will be in their 22d year. This latter group were not eligible for last year's selection because they were then less than 21 years of age. They are now placed in first priority for this year's training.

b. Nongraduates of the institution commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps in 1937.

c. Other outstanding former members of the R.O. T. C. of the institution commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps prior to 1937 and under 28 years of age on July 1, 1937.

4. The Professor of Military Science and factics of each senior R. O. T. C. unit of an institution not offering a college degree will prepare lists showing name, age, and residence of applicants for training who have been commissioned in the Officers' Reserve Corps from the institution or who are expected to be so commissioned before July 1, 1937, and who will be less than 28 years of age on July 1, 1937, arnaged in the order of their military efficiency.

ciency, i On or before April 1, 1937, each Professor 5. On or before April 1, 1937, each Professor of Military Science and Tactics will forward one complete set of the lists referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 above to the Commanding General of each of the nine Corps Areas.

6. Each Corps Area Commander may select not to exceed 10 per cent of his allotment from second lieutenants of the Officers' Reserve Corps, graduates of the C. M. T. C., subject to the following restrictions:

a. That the officer to be selected shall not have attained the age of 28 years on July 1, 1937.

b. That he have educational qualifications at least equal to two years of a college course.
7. All trainees other than those selected from the C. M. T. C. will be selected by Corps Area Commanders from second lieutenants of the Officers' Reserve Corps, graduates of senior units of the R. O. T. C. less than 28 years of age on July 1, 1937, in the following priorities:

priorities:

lat Priority: Students to be graduated in lift from institutions offering a college degree, and other graduates of institutions offering a college degree who, on July 1, 1937, will be in their 22nd year;
2nd Priority: Nongraduates of institutions offering a college degree commissioned in lift;

3rd Priority: Other outstanding Reserve and lieutenants commissioned from senior ts of the R. O. T. C. at institutions offer units of the R. O. T. C. at institutions offering a college degree; 4th Priority: Graduates of senior units of the R. O. T. C. at institutions which do not offer a college degree.

In the selection of trainces it is desired that, in compliance with the intent of Congrean, Corps Area Commanders select the best qualified of the available candidates, giving preference in their selection to the order of priority prescribed above. They will first select all suitable candidates of the first priority and then complete their quota by selecting candidates from the remaining priorities, exhausting all suitable candidates of the second priority before proceeding to the third priority, and so on. It is desired that schools be represented among those selected, in so far as practicable, in proportion to the number of R. O. T. C. graduates in the current year from the institutions concerned. Corps Area Commanders will consider this factor in making their selections.

S. In the event that yncancies exist in cer-

sider this factor in making their selections.

8. In the event that vacancies exist in certain arms and the Chemical Warfare Service which cannot be filled by suitable applicants, and an applicant is desired by the Corps Area Commander for this training in a section other than the one in which commissioned and is considered qualified by education and experience for duty in the latter section, transfer for such purposes may be recommended to the War Department by the Corps Area Commander without requiring a certificate of capacity for the new section. If allotments cannot be filled the War Department will be notified not later than June 15, 1937, or earlier if it has been definitely determined.

9. The standard of physical qualifications

The standard of physical qualification will be the same as for commission in the Regular Army.

Regular Army.

a. Applicants will be required to present themselves to a medical officer of the Regular Army for preliminary physical examination which will be made not more than 90 days prior to July 1, 1937. Report will be rendered on AGO Form 63. For the convenience of applicants, Corps Area Commanders will, if practicable, arrange for the visits of medical officers of the Regular Army at institutions for the purpose of giving the physical examination of all applicants of the first priority. No Reserve officer will be ordered to active duty where the preliminary physical examination shows disqualifying defects or discloses symptoms or conditions which indicate possibility of organic or degenerative disease or chronic disease which may become acute or exacerbated. or exacerbated.

b. All Reserve officers under orders to active duty will be given a thorough physical examination immediately upon reporting for duty. Report will be rendered on AGO Form 63. Examination will be complete in order that all physical disqualifications or defects may be discovered and recorded. The required action for relief from active duty will be taken promptly if any disqualifying defects or symptoms or conditions which indicate possibility of organic or degenerative disease or symptoms or conditions which indicace is sibility of organic or degenerative disease chronic disease which may become acute exacerbated are disclosed by the physical amination made immediately upon report xacerbated are disclosed by the payment mination made immediately upon reporting or active duty.

c. Prior physical waivers for appointment r retention in the Officers' Reserve Corps cill not be taken as authority for waiver for this duty.

10. Final acceptance of candidates will be made upon satisfactory physical examination made at time of reporting for active duty. Candidates will be advised not to relinquish materials and acceptant of to nurchase military. Candidates will be advised not to relinquish civilian employment or to purchase military equipment until finally accepted after reporting for active duty.

11. Later instructions will be issued governing issuance of orders and time of reporting for active duty.

11. Later instructions will be issued governing issuance of orders and time of reporting for active duty.

12. Professors of Military Science and Tactics will proceed immediately with the compilation and forwarding of lists of applicants to each Corps Area Commander. Corps Area Commanders may take preliminary steps in securing applications and in making their selections, but these instructions will be effective only in the event funds are appropriated.

13. No Reserve officer who is married will receive training under this Act and marriage either before or after selection will be cause for rejection or immediate relief from active duty. All applicants will be advised of this provision.

14. Applicants will not be reduced in grade to make them eligible for this duty and those finally accepted will not be promoted while on this duty.

In all cases where it is considered desirable to relieve a trainee from active duty by reason of misconduct, inefficiency, or other unfitness, the instructions contained in War Department letter, Nov. 26, 1935, AG 210.31 ORC (11-26-34), Subject: "Relief of Reserve officers from active duty," will be compiled with strictly.

16. After the quota of trainees has been filled with fully accepted candidates, no replacements will be ordered to active duty in the event that losses occur in the original group.

roup. 17. Reserve officers will be assigned in s or as practicable to units for training in th far as practicable to units for training in the vicinity of their residence. This will not only be of benefit during the current training period, but later these Reserve officers may be assigned to these organizations with which they have been training, and as a consequence be in a position to receive further training, either on an active or inactive status, or both, with "their" regiment.

18. Unless specifically excepted by War Department instructions, pertinent Army Regulations governing Reserve officers will apply in all matters relating to administration of the personnel called to active duty under suthority of Public No. 408—74th Congress (Thomason Act), approved August 30, 1935.

19. Corps Area Commanders may prepare and use such forms of proper size as required for submitting applications for this training.

20. Individual reports of entry upon active duty will be secured and forwarded as promptly as possible.

21. It is desired that each Corps Area Commander furnish each Professor of Military Science and Tactics of a Senior R. O. T. C. unit in his Corps Area five copies of these instructions and secure from each a written acknowledgement of receipt of these instructions.

ons, 22. It is desired that each Corps Area Com-under forward to this office a written ac-nowledgement of receipt of these instruc-ons at Corps Area Headquarters.

Panama Canal Dept, Maneuvers

The Panama Canal Department ma-neuvers for 1937 which began yesterday and will end March 30, is to be divided into four phases.

In the first phase the troops of the At-lantic and Pacific Sectors will be alerted in their respective sectors under existing plans to meet the requirements of a situa-tion to be announced at the proper time In the second phase the Atlantic Sector will be reinforced by movement of troops from the Pacific Sector; the Mobile Force will become intact; a Provisional Coast Artillery Brigade will be created and all installations will be manned with strength installations will be manned with strength for continuous operation without 'ater-rupting defensive or offensive measures in progress in the Atlantic Sector at that time. Operations will be continued by the Mobile Force and the Provisional Const Artillery Brigade with hostile land, sea and air forces suggested in the third and air forces represented in the third phase, while the final phase will consist of the critique and a Department Review.

The purposes of the maneuvers are:
1. Test of alertness of the command and the ability and readiness of all elements to take the field on short notice.

2. Tactical and technical training.

3. Test of the completeness, adaptabil-ity and adequacy of existing plans and means of supply and transportation to meet the conditions imposed by the prob-lems presented in the maneuvers.

 Test of the completeness, suitability and adequacy of existing plans, means and method for evacuation and hospital-ization in the situation presented in the maneuvers.

5. Thorough testing of existing means of communication.

The Fourth Coast Artillery, including The Fourth Coast Artiflery, including both antiaircraft and harbor defense ele-ments (less recruits and necessary garri-son left behind for protection) will move to the Atlantic side for participation in the second and subsequent phases of the maneuvers.

The Department Commander will not assume command of troops in the field. He will continue to function as Department Commander and his relation to the ment Commander and his relation to the maneuvers will be those of Department Commander and Chief Umpire. The De-partment Headquarters and Staff, as such, will not take the field, either, but an advanced echelon will be established in the Atlantic Sector during the second phase of the maneuvers. Nor will the Panama Canal Department Signal Com-Panama Canal Department Signal Company, as such, take the field. It will be responsible for the operation and maintenance of lines of communication between Department Headquarters and the two Sector Headquarters during the first phase and between Department Headquarters and the Headquarters of the Mobile Forces and the Provisional Coast Artillery Brigade and for such extension of this service as may be required in the this service as may be required in the second and subsequent phases of the ma-

During the first phase, the Atlantic and Pacific Sector Headquarters will each function in accordance with the princi-ples laid down in their respective War plans. During the second phase when the Mobile Force has been concentrated on the Atlantic Side, these two Headquarters will be combined under the commander of the Mobile Force (less such Coast Artillery personnel as may later be au-thorized to compose the Provisional Head-quarters Staff of the Coast Artillery Brigade Commander).

Nat. Gd. Unit Celebrates

132nd Infantry, 66th Brigade, 33rd Division, with headquarters at 2653 West Madison Street, Chicago, will celebrate its sixty-first anniversary Monday, March 15. An Inter-regimental competition will be preceded by a dinner in the Officers' Club given in honor of all non-commissioned officers of ten or more years of service within the Regiment. Four years after Mrs. O'Leary's cow started Chicago's historic fire, the Second Regiment, Illinois National Guard, came into being. During its sixty years of service it has, on occasion, wandered far from its native West Side of Chicago. It has burned under tropic suns in Cuba and on the Mexican Border. It has faced the bricks of rioters at home and the bullets of an enemy in France.

Herb Lewis of the Detroit Red Wings says: "I go for Camels in a big way!"

THE lightning-quick camera eye caught Herb Lewis (above, left) in this slashing set-to before the goal. Next split-second he scored! After the game (right), Herb said: "You bet I enjoy eating. And I'll give Camels credit for helping me enjoy my food. Smoking Camels with my meals and afterwards eases tension. Camels set me right! And they don't frazzle my nerves."

Camel smokers enjoy smoking to the full. It's Camels for an invigorating "lift" in energy. At mealtimes it's Camels again "for digestion's sake." Thanks to Camel's gentle aid, the flow of the important digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids—speeds up. A sense of well-being follows. So make it Camels—the live-long day.
